Jesus: A Man of Compassion

We live in a cruel and heartless world. Browse through today's newspaper and prepare to be inundated with negative stories that show human beings at their worst. Here are just a few headlines.

1. 82-Year-Old Arrested for Burglary: "Wouldn't do this nonsense if the government gave us more money.
2. Man and woman arrested for robbing banks
3. Assault Victim in Critical Condition
4. Puppies Thrown out of Moving Tow Truck

The headlines go on and on. It feels as if our world is getting more depraved every day. What a wonderful blessing to find refuge from a cold and indifferent world inside our physical and spiritual family! Because of the influence of Jesus, these should be places of healing, compassion, safety, comfort, and rest. Putting on a heart of compassion should certainly be a goal for every Christian. In Jesus we have the perfect example. There are several examples in the gospels where compassion is used to describe Jesus:

Matthew 9.36; Mark 6.34 - Jesus felt compassion on the people and likened them to sheep without a shepherd.

Matthew 14.14 - Jesus felt compassion when he healed the sick.

Matthew 15.32 - provided for the physical needs of the crowds.

Mark 9.22 - exercised compassion on a demon possessed person.

Luke 7.13 - Jesus had compassion on the widow whose only son die
