Coldwater Church of Christ

Welcome to our Services..... March 20, 2016

Potluck today after services! Please stay and eat with us.
No evening services tonight.

Wendi Baker is home now. Please continue to pray.
Joyce's surgery went well. She is staying with her daughter Jane for a while. It was discovered she has brittle bones so it's imperative that she stay off her feet for 6 weeks while the bones heal. Please continue to pray for her.

Beth's surgery to repair her voice went well also. She will be able to talk better soon. Continued prayers appreciated.
Cathleen will have surgery on her toe soon. Prayers on her behalf are appreciated.

The carpet and paint have been picked. The painting will be done in April and the carpet in May. The elders chose to get the congregation's suggestions and went with the combination that was suggested the most. The paint that was chosen is a light gray and the carpet that was chosen is the one with the red dots. Your support and patience during this transition is appreciated.

Lowell Huffman took over David's Camp Indogan session. He's in need of a head cook for this year. If anyone is interested, see David and he'll get the word to Lowell.

Several people have expressed an interest in teaching Kid's Church on an occasional basis. There is a sign-up sheet on the bulletin board.

New Directories: The new directories are available. Pick up pages to put in your old binder today. If you don't have an old binder, pick one up with the new pages. Thanks Kathy for all your hard work on this project!

The next meeting of the HIS Group is April 1st from 1-3. Please come and help out with quilts and stuffed elephants!

The Ladies' Day will be Saturday, April 30th. Don't forget to sign-up on the sheet on the bulletin board. Bring a friend! There are flyers on the table for you to take and share!

Please fill out the prayer request sheets if you have a request and give it to Loretta. They are on the back table in the auditorium.

Where Are You Headed?

John was going the wrong way. But, he didn't know it. He was making great time and was enjoying himself, and he was sure he was headed the right way. On the Appalachian Trail, hiking to a place called Peck's Corner, John rounded a corner and found five men resting on a boulder by the trail. There was the inevitable, "Where are you headed?"

When John answered, "Peck's Corner," the conversation stalled. "Peck's Corner is the other way," one of the five finally said. "That's where we're going."

"No, no, it's this way," insisted John, pointing up the trail ahead of him. In unison, five heads shook in disagreement. Five to one said John was wrong, but he still wasn't convinced. Until he finally consulted his compass.

That settled it. The compass made it clear. Dave was going in the wrong direction. He had been hiking for hours, going uphill, moving steadily away from where he needed to be.

In John's defense, he had fallen earlier that day and got up dazed and disoriented and started walking. Certain that he was still going the right direction, he hadn't bothered to consult his compass. That was a costly mistake.

Direction, not desire, determines destination. *It doesn't matter where we want to go. It's our direction that determines the destination we reach. That's true, not just of hiking trails, but also of life's travels. And we all do what John did and get confused about our direction. **

So, where are you headed?

Jesus says that ultimately there are only two possible destinations: "Enter by the narrow gate; for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction, and there are many who go in by it. Because narrow is the gate and difficult is the way which leads to life, and there are few who find it" (Matthew 7:13-14).

Are you headed for eternal life or for eternal destruction? Wishum states: "It is a powerful temptation for us to assume that we'll be safely guided by the way we were raised, what 'everyone' does, by what we've always heard, or by how we feel in our hearts, or even by what the preacher says. None of those are reliable guides, however."

The Compass says that the way to eternal life is through Jesus, forgiveness of our sins.
